Fairfield's Garage is shown in 1921. Guy Fairfield moved his garage from 58 Beech Street to the old Cheshire House stables at 25 Roxbury Street, Keene in 1913. Fairfield built a two-story building behind Cheshire House not to sell cars, but rather to repair, store, and clean the automobiles of the rich Cheshire House guests. The Cheshire House was renowned for its food and service, and it attracted visitors from all over the world. The Roxbury Street building is now the Blaisdell building.

Back In The Day, The Early 1900s

In the early 1900s, the average yearly wage was $432. The average home in America sold for approximately $5000, and a steam-powered car cost $1000.

Shoppers could buy a five-pound bag of flour for 12 cents, round steak was 13 cents a pound, and bacon was a penny more. Eggs were 21 cents per dozen, milk sold for 14 cents for a half-gallon, and butter cost 26 cents per pound. A 10-pound bag of potatoes was 14 cents, and a five-pound bag of sugar cost 31 cents. Chocolate was relatively expensive, costing around 34 cents per pound.
